

• On board?
Sign here:

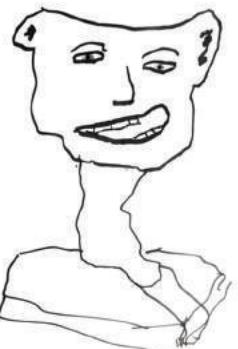

A Manifesto for the Future

Lessons learnt over the last year and how these better support brain injury survivors

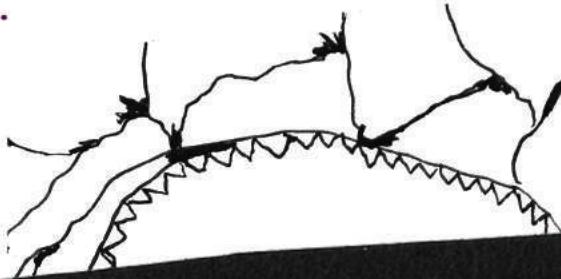

1. COLLABORATE

Teamwork has definitely been a big part of getting through the last year - we work better together. Let's keep looking for opportunities to find like-minded people and organisations to get things done.

3. PRIORITISE

WE'VE SEEN HUGE, GREAT CHANGES AT NATIONAL LEVEL FOR CERTAIN ISSUES RESULTING FROM THE PANDEMIC. FOR TOO LONG THE NEEDS OF PEOPLE WITH BRAIN INJURY AND HIDDEN DISABILITIES HAVE BEEN SIDELINED. LET'S PLACE MORE IMPORTANCE ON THESE THINGS AND MAKE SURE THAT CHANGE HAPPENS QUICKER.

4. INNOVATE

So many people have had to adapt to new ways of living and working in this last year, and have done so with great creativity. Let's keep thinking of and trying new things to ensure that society is more accessible to everyone.

5. SLOW DOWN

The last year has taught us the value of taking more time. Lots of people need more time for fatigue reasons, and struggle with fast-paced life. Let's take a beat to think about others as we rush through our day.